

BRONZE beauties

One of the freshest new looks this year is the growing popularity of the "bronze" look: brown diamonds set in rose gold. This warm glowing palette first appeared in Italy but its popularity has been spreading. After years of being a fashion favorite which didn't sell through for most jewelers, rose gold seems to have finally become a viable option for many retailers. The popularity of the combination of warm rose gold with warm-toned stones like amethyst, morganite, rhodolite, and rose quartz in addition to smoky quartz and brown and champagne diamonds may be the reason why rose gold is finally making market inroads.
